

Professor or Associate Professor in Architecture

The School of Architecture, Land & Environmental Sciences announces one academic position at the rank of Professor or Associate Professor in Architecture

The School of Architecture, Land and Environmental Sciences aspires to be a centre of excellence in architecture, landscape architecture, urban and environmental design, quantity surveying, construction management, and real estate. The School offers undergraduate, postgraduate and PhD programs, and is seeking to recruit a Professor or an Associate Professor to teach in both the undergraduate and postgraduate programs, as well as supervise doctorate theses in Architecture:

For the post of Professor or Associate Professor, candidates should have at least 10 years or 6 years of teaching and/or research experience at a University, respectively. Candidates should also have significant teaching experience, as well as a strong record of research and publications in the area of Architecture and/or high quality architectural work. Holding a PhD will be considered as an advantage. The post holder will play a leading role in developing the subject area and the ideal candidate will be expected to provide substantial academic and research leadership.

An internationally competitive remuneration package is offered according to qualifications and experience.
